

PRIVACY POLICY

The Springwood Bushwalking Club abides by the Guidelines for Federal and ACT Government World Wide Web Sites issued by the Australian Privacy Commissioner.

The Club aims to maintain a safe and secure system for handling personal individual information.

It only collects personal information that is necessary for its bushwalking club functions. It will only use personal information for the reasons it was collected.

This collection of data is primarily for:

- communication with members,
- being of assistance if participants are injured or delayed on a club activity, and
- allowing communication between members.

Members have the opportunity to opt out from being contacted by other members.

The Club will use best endeavours to protect members' information from misuse, loss or unauthorised access, modification or disclosure both physically and through computer security methods to other parties.

If you have a written privacy related complaint, the Springwood Bushwalking Club committee will investigate and take action to resolve the matter.
